Issaquah, WA – April 3, 2013 - HydroPeptide's new Uplifting Comfort Eye Gel visibly restores youthful qualities to the eyes – smoothing, tightening and hydrating skin along the eye contour. Uplift immediately leaves eyelids looking radiant, youthful, and perfectly primed for eye makeup. Dramatic improvement is seen with regular use. Uplift is a daily anti-aging treatment for the eyes featuring a new skin-firming peptide, a rare Moroccan extract and an unprecedented liposomal preparation.

"The eyes require a more targeted anti-aging approach because skin around the eyes is thinner than other facial skin. That skin is also subjected to a greater number of repetitive contractions as a result of blinking and rubbing the eyes," said April Zangl, HydroPeptide's CEO and co-formulator. "To add insult to injury, our ability to produce glutathione, a master antioxidant that defends skin against accelerated aging, declines with age. Lesser antioxidants like Vitamin C depend on glutathione to perform a variety of functions including suppressing pigmentation and deactivating wrinkle-causing free radicals. For that reason the Uplifting Comfort Eye Gel contains Nanowhite, – a combination of glutathione with Vitamin C and Arbutin, a skin lightener with a complete safety profile."

How is the Uplifting Comfort Eye Gel unlike other anti-aging eye products?

Out of 45 efficacy study participants between the ages of 29 and 66, 94% reported skin along the eye contour looking firmer and more lifted after two weeks of applying Uplift twice a day. The anti-inflammatory effect of Myristoyl Tripeptide-31, a peptide likened to retinoic acid, contributes to the reduced appearance of crepiness noted by study participants. Moroccan argan extract is another key ingredient – producing a tightening sensation and visible improvement in firmness within an hour of application to skin above and below the eyes. Results are based on analyses generated from photos taken on a Janus Complexion Analysis machine and responses collected in perception surveys taken by participants.

HydroPeptide's Uplifting Comfort Eye Gel is 0.5 ounces and retails for $68. HydroPeptide is found in the world's most prestigious spas and dermatological clinics and online at HydroPeptide.com.
